

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A horizontally mounted siding component for finishing of a top course of a vinyl siding installation while minimizing the lateral deformation of the vinyl siding.

The invention additionally relates to the method for post-form extruding a

- 5 thermoplastic dual undersill trim with complex geometry including extensive folding of the extruded material in a series of fixtures.